Recreate Philippines

Recreate Philippines is the name given to Bahay Tuluyan’s range of products. Children and their communities involved in the project not only create beautiful products out of recycled materials, but are recreating a new future for themselves and other Filipino children.

Half of the revenue generated from the products goes directly to the children and the communities themselves while the other half is donated towards programs and services for Bahay Tuluyan a Filipino NGO in the Philippines caring for children in need of special protection.

Children over the age of fifteen participate in the program. Participating by children is voluntary and is monitored to ensure that it is appropriate to the child’s age and development and that it will contribute to the advancement of the child’s skills.
All of our products are stylishly up-cycled by children and their communities. Each piece is as unique and beautiful as the children and communities who create them as each of our handmade products is created using different recycled materials. While the colors and patterns are different on each product, the high quality and structure of our product is standard across all our designs. This high quality of our products have led to our products being able to be sold internationally.

In 2008 and 2009 Bahay Tuluyan conducted studies into the practice of rescue in the cities of Caloocan, Manila, Pasay and Quezon Cities. The results were recorded in a book entitled ‘Sagip or Huli? Rescue of Street Children in Caloocan, Manila, Pasay and Quezon Cities’. A total of 599 children and 114 rescuers were interviewed, documenting more than 600 cases of rescue.
